

Brothers Play
by Matthew Doherty
directed by Deb Hiett

Brothers Play is a nativity scene... of sorts. Thomas throws a rock through the rose window at church to shatter his family's code of silence, a few days before Christmas. A darkly funny, brutally honest exposure of abuse, and secrets, and how they spill out despite ourselves. And the love of brothers, of course.

SHE

by Marlow Wyatt

directed by Rondrell McCormick

After receiving an opportunity to attend the prestigious Vanguard Academy, 13-year old SHE is forced to “make her own way” and face the harsh realities of adult life. SHE copes through a world of poetry, and soon discovers that the small town she was so desperate to escape is filled with the very people who give her wings to fly.

Willed Bodies

by Ashley Rose Wellman

directed by Emily Chase

At a Willed Body ceremony – an event where medical students meet the families of medical cadavers – Lydia, an ambitious first-year med student, meets Harrison, the son of the cadaver she is about to dissect. As Lydia cuts deeper and deeper into his father’s body, she and Harrison enter into an unconventional relationship that straddles the line between sweet and horrifying.

Turning Over

by Jeanette Farr

directed by Marya Mazor

Martina has always been the best at video games since “turning over” Defender in 1984. The skills she learned with the games that she played got her through many battles. Now Martina is propelled in a world of past traumas video-game style. As she battles levels and the “monsters” from her past can she make the decision to be a better wife, mother, and human?
